

GENERATION AMERICA...An Information Resource

We would like for you to think of Generation America when looking for information or responses for your articles or editorials on matters affecting America.

We understand the difficulties of deadline pressure efforts to provide a balanced report to your readers. And, we respect the need for explanations on complicated issues or the desire to find that right source. We won't dodge the issue. If it is something outside our organization's perimeters, we will make efforts to guide you to another more informed source.

Please include our Generation America contacts in your resource files.
